PROGRAM

BEYOND THE STATUS QUO: A NEW LENS FOR VETERINARY LEADERSHIP

The 2025 VMAE Fall Conference is shaping up to be a special event. Not only do we venture outside the U.S. for the first time, but we have an impactful, content-rich program to offer to you. The conference begins with a unique workshop designed to help us examine our associations in a different way, suggesting a new lens for leadership, with clear, actionable ideas.

The program agenda includes exploration of special areas of interest to VMAs, including managing foundations and offering career services as a key member benefit. We discuss emerging trends and issues that provide veterinary associations with unique opportunities to serve our members while shaping the profession's future. Topics include harnessing AI, turning climate consciousness into association action, and breaking license mobility barriers.

We also have a new dynamic MemberShare format and as usual, times and places where we can catch up with colleagues or meet new ones in a relaxed setting.

FRIDAY PROGRAM

What Got Us Here Won't Get Us There: A Guide to Reinventing your Association Strategy

8:45 am - Noon | 1:15 - 2:45 pm

Are the strategies that defined your past the right ones to secure your future? In today's rapidly evolving association landscape, what got you here won't get you there. Alanna Tievsky McKee and Julia Riordan from Scarlet Oak Consulting get us started with a dynamic, full-day workshop designed to challenge the status quo and empower you with a new lens for leadership. This interactive session begins by grounding us in today's association operating environment—where outdated business and governance models, rapidly evolving member needs, and a volatile world demand bold change. From there, we'll explore the power of alignment—ensuring your organization has the right processes and practices to drive operational efficiency, and act with speed, agility, and focus in this unfamiliar landscape. Finally, we'll explore how to build and sustain a culture of innovation within your association. We'll equip you with the tools and confidence to ignite a culture of innovation, disrupt your own models, and reimagine what's possible.

This is more than a session; it's a strategic reset, giving you a clear, actionable playbook to help lead your association into the future.

Breakout Panel Sessions

3:00 - 4:00 pm

➤ Session A: Veterinary Foundations

Learn how veterinary foundations are effectively supporting their organizations and their missions. Dan Tjornehoj, Executive Director of the American Holistic Veterinary Medical Foundation, moderates a panel discussion including Danielle Johnson (AVMA), Leah Ann Tibbitts (Texas VMF), Keith Kleine (AAEP), and Erin Truax (Minnesota VMF).

➤ Session B: Elevate your Membership Value with Career Services

Association executives participate in a panel discussion moderated by Dr. Kevin Dajka, AVMA Director of Veterinary Career Services, on the importance of providing career services to each vital segment of the veterinary profession. We explore current career resources available, opportunities for additional services, and participating in the Veterinary Career Community through the lens of fellow association colleagues.

SATURDAY PROGRAM

Shaping Tomorrow: Empowering Associations to Lead Veterinary Medicine's Next Era

This morning's sessions are moderated by Catherine Haskins, of Bridge Club fame. We delve into several areas of interest to organized veterinary medicine, all serving as opportunities for us to shape future outcomes and the pace and direction of change, with each topic part of a larger movement in the profession.

➤ From Insight to Action: Harnessing AI to Elevate Your Association

9:00 - 9:45 am

Dr. Mike Mossop, Chief Veterinary Officer of CoVet, leads us in a discussion of practical applications of artificial intelligence to strengthen member engagement, streamline operations, and anticipate future needs in veterinary medicine. This session connects the tech trends to tangible association strategies.

➤ Sustaining Our Profession: Turning Climate Consciousness into Association Action

9:45 - 10:30 am

Building on "Sustainability September," this session is designed to equip association leaders with realistic, high-impact ways to inspire sustainable practices among members and lead by example at the national, state, and local levels. Dr. Meaghan Gilhooly, Vice President Veterinary Affairs, Banfield Pet Hospital, and Lauren Koch, Sustainability Sr. Program Manager, Mars Veterinary Health, share with us their perspectives and practical guidance.

➤ Breaking Barriers: Advancing Veterinary License Mobility for a Stronger Profession

10:45 - 11:15 am

A panel comprised of various stakeholders takes a deep dive into the evolving conversation around license mobility or portability, its benefits for workforce access and patient care, and how associations can be the voice pushing this transformation forward. The panel includes Jim Penrod (AAVSB), Chris Henney (Ohio VMA), Madeline Brezin (AVMA) and Katie Jarl (Animal Policy Group).

Association Executive Think Tank

11:15 am - Noon

Tim Atkinson (NYSVMS) and Heather O'Steen (Feline VMA) facilitate a new MemberShare format where attendees collaborate in a dynamic environment, exchanging ideas and best practices. The facilitators ask participants several predetermined questions for all of us to get a pulse of what others are doing. Meeting participants will have an opportunity to suggest questions prior to the conference.

Experience the highlights of Montréal in one unforgettable afternoon aboard a comfortable motor coach with a professional local guide. We'll pause at the picturesque Square Saint-Louis, framed by brightly painted Victorian homes, for a short walking and photo stop.

The tour concludes with a special visit to the Montréal Biodome, where you'll have 90 minutes to explore five immersive ecosystems from tropical rainforest to sub-polar habitats at your own pace.
